CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 122 pages. Dimensions: 11.0in. x 8.5in. x 0.3in. The United States Government doesn't appear very anxious to claim its property, does it, sir asked Captain Jack Benson. The speaker was a boy of sixteen, attired in a uniform much after the pattern commonly worn by yacht captains. The insignia of naval rank were conspicuously absent. Now, that I've had the good luck to sell the Pollard to the Navy, responded Jacob Farnum, principal owner of the shipbuilding yard, I'm not disposed to grumble if the Government prefers to store its property here for a while. Yet the young shipbuilder he was a man in his early thirties, who had inherited this shipbuilding business from his father allowed his eyes to twinkle in a way that suggested there was something else behind his words. Jack Benson saw that twinkle, but he did not ask questions. If the shipbuilder knew more than he was prepared to tell, it was not for his young captain to ask for information that was not volunteered. The second boy present, also in uniform, Hal Hastings by name, had not spoken in five minutes. That was like Hal. He was the engineer of the submarine torpedo boat, Pollard. Jack was captain of the same craft, and could do all the talking. Jacob Farnum sat back, sideways, at his rolltop desk. On top of the desk lay stacked a voluminous though neat pile of papers, letters, telegrams and memoranda that some rival builders of submarine torpedo boats might have been willing to pay much for the privilege of examining. For, at the present moment, there was fierce competition in the air between rival American builders of submarine fighting craft designed for the United States Navy. Even...
